

April 10th 2007

Reporter: David Spatz – NBC 40-TV New Jersey

“Over the Years, Atlantic City has had a tendency to attract generic revues that look and sound the same. So it would be easy to dismiss the new production show at Harrah’s as just more of the same. It would also be very unfair, Good Evening, South Jersey, I’m David Spatz with something to shout about. The show is called SHOUT, and its description as the mod musical doesn’t do justice to a show that delivers 80 minutes of solid and quirky entertainment...

Shout is set in the mod era – The 60’s – and features some of the most memorable songs of the period performed by five talented young women.

...The show is built on songs that were anthems for a generation. And they’re not just covers either. The vocal and music arrangements are have been adapted to fit the personality of the show and its cast.

SHOUT really does prove that those were the days, my friend!”